

Division: School of Economics and Management

Academic programme: 38.04.08 Finance and Credit, Financial Technologies and Banking Activities

Mode of study: part-time

Programme length: 2.5 years

Programme level: Master's degree

Language of instruction: Russian

Programme description: The programme is aimed at training new personnel for the field of digital economy, able to respond to the challenges which appear in the banking sector right now. The explosive growth in the application of information technologies leads to the transformation of banking business models and the appearance of new risks.

Graduates become highly qualified heads and specialists in the field of financial technologies and banking and work in banks, holding the position of any level of banking management, able to generate innovative ideas and implement them in financial and banking practice.

Main programme-specific classes:

- Banking Products and Financial Instruments
- Financial Sector and Its Role in State Economy
- Monetary and Macprudential Policy
- Financial and Management Reporting
- Corporate Finance
- System of Risk Management in Banks
- Investment Activity of Financial Institutions
- Digital and Technological Projects of Financial Sector
- Investment Attractiveness and Business Valuation
- International Operations of Banks
- International and National Systems of Payments and Settlements
- Exchange Trading and Instruments
- Information Technologies and Digital Platforms in Business Activities
- Credit Ratings and Creditworthiness
- Strategic Management of Credit Institution and Crisis Management

Programme manager: Valentina N. Tishina, Candidate of Sciences (Economics), Associate Professor